OCTOBER'S EAGLE SCOUT OF THE MONTH

October's Eagle Scout of the Month is Mason Myatt from Troop 787 in Loveland. Mason says, "Scouting has helped me stick to my resolutions and morals, and take a serious interest in the outdoors." During his Eagle project it gave him the opportunity to learn what he could improve upon and how to be prepared. Mason plans to attend BYU after a two-year church Spanish speaking mission in Chicago, Illinois. Mason has aspirations to go into Clinical Neurology because the medical field has always interested him and he enjoys learning about how our brain functions and works. Congrats Mason.

There are varying ways in which a volunteer can contribute to service in the council. The more time, talents and treasure they have given to provide the Scouting program to the youth in our council the more likely the nominee is to receive the award.
